Regional Academy on the United Nations

Training the Next Generation of Internationalists!

“The Regional Academy on the United Nations is a valuable multicultural educational initiative to train an emerging generation of young scholars in issues of importance to the United Nations. With its program of meetings in several countries, and its flexible multi-national teams of students working together to address challenges for global governance, the Regional Academy offers a model of how to encourage collective solutions to world problems.

I congratulate the founders and the participants of the RAUN for their efforts. I hope to see many of them taking on important roles for international cooperation in their future careers.”

Jan Eliasson, Former UN Deputy Secretary General

OVERVIEW

The Regional Academy on the United Nations (RAUN) is an international, multi-disciplinary education program which trains young scholars in issues related to the United Nations and international cooperation. RAUN's aim is to provide participants with in-depth knowledge about the UN and its functions, to raise their cultural awareness and openness, and to offer a forum for networking and academic exchange.

The Academy follows a unique format combining lectures and workshops with practical hands-on-experiences. The program consists of three sessions per academic year starting in May until January. The sessions take place in different participating countries (this year: Slovakia, Hungary, and Austria) and include lectures and interactive workshops on various topics of relevance. All lectures are given by high-ranking experts and practitioners who also share their rich experience with participants in an informal setting.

Apart from their course-work during the sessions, participants work on research projects in cooperation with different UN Agencies and other international organizations allowing them to contribute in finding innovative solutions to contemporary global challenges. Through their group work and social activities, participants can form strong networks with their like-minded peers and experts from various fields in an environment that fosters diversity, tolerance, cultural learning, and understanding. During the program, students get the opportunity to experience first-hand the UN institutions in Vienna and international organizations in other countries allowing them to interact directly with experts, practitioners, and diplomats.

The Regional Academy was established in January 2012 in Vienna, Austria, in close collaboration with the Academic Council on the United Nations System (ACUNS), the United Nations Information Service (UNIS) Vienna, the Comprehensive Test-Ban Treaty Organization (CTBTO), the Czech United Nations Association, as well as different partner universities, such as the University of Economics in Prague (CZ) and the University of Szeged (HU). Other partners include The Hague Institute for Global Justice, University of Vienna, Diplomatic Academy Vienna, Central European University Budapest, Webster University Vienna, and Comenius University Bratislava, among others.

Since its creation, RAUN has trained over 200 young scholars from more than 40 countries who have continued their endeavors in academia, government institutions, the UN system and other international organizations. The Academy was endorsed by the United Nations Secretariat through the Former UN Deputy Secretary-General, Jan Eliasson, and the United Nations Information Service (UNIS Vienna) as well as by the Hague Institute for Global Justice and by the Diplomatic Academy of Vienna.

STRUCTURE AND COURSE FORMAT

The 2018-2019 RAUN will be held in three sessions in Bratislava (SK) and Vienna (AT), Budapest (HU), and Vienna (AT). Each session consists of several lectures and workshops that will be given by experts and practitioners in the respective field. Apart from course-work, the sessions also include teamwork, networking and social activities that foster group dynamic, personal development and intercultural learning and understanding.

In addition to the three sessions, participants work in small teams (maximum four members) on research projects in close cooperation with partnering UN Agencies and other international organizations. The research projects are linked to specific research questions formulated by the Agencies that are linked to the main theme of the Academy. The theme for the 2018-19 RAUN is “Innovations for Development: Towards Peaceful, Sustainable and Inclusive Societies”.

At the onset of the Academy, participants are assigned a research group and partner organization based on their individual preferences and interests. For the 2018-2019 Academy, participants will deal with a variety of relevant topics, such as: how to eradicate poverty in a way that leaves no one behind; ensure sustainability and protection of the planet; build peaceful societies and prevent violent conflicts; implement inclusive development policies, manage risks and improve disaster response; and advance gender equality and women’s empowerment?

As part of the Academy participants write a group research paper of 20 pages which will be published on the RAUN homepage and other platforms. The paper must follow RAUN guidelines which are provided to the participants in the first session. During the final session, which takes place at the UN Headquarters in Vienna, participants present the outcome of their research projects, including policy recommendations, to representatives of UN agencies and a group of jury experts. After the final sessions, participants are awarded certificates based on their performance in the Academy.
