Regional Academy on the United Nations

Training the Next Generation of Internationalists!

“The Regional Academy on the United Nations is a valuable multicultural educational initiative to train an emerging generation of young scholars in issues of importance to the United Nations. With its program of meetings in several countries, and its flexible multi-national teams of students working together to address challenges for global governance, the Regional Academy offers a model of how to encourage collective solutions to world problems.

I congratulate the founders and the participants of the RAUN for their efforts. I hope to see many of them taking on important roles for international cooperation in their future careers.”

Jan Eliasson, Former UN Deputy Secretary General

Overview

The Regional Academy on the United Nations (RAUN) is an international, multi-disciplinary education program, which trains young scholars in issues related to the United Nations and international cooperation. RAUN's aim is to provide participants with in-depth knowledge about the UN and its functions, to raise their cultural awareness and openness, and to offer a forum for networking and academic exchange.

The Academy follows a unique format combining lectures and workshops with practical hands-on-experiences. The program consists of three sessions per academic year starting in May until January. The sessions take place in different participating countries (this year: Slovakia, Hungary, and Austria) and include lectures and interactive workshops on various topics of relevance. All lectures are given by high-ranking experts and practitioners who also share their rich experience with participants in an informal setting.

Apart from their course-work during the sessions, participants work on research projects in cooperation with different UN Organizations and other international organizations allowing them to contribute to finding innovative solutions to contemporary global challenges. Through their group work and social activities, participants can form strong networks with like-minded peers and experts from various fields in an environment that fosters diversity, tolerance, cultural learning, and understanding. During the program, students get the opportunity to experience first-hand the UN institutions in Vienna and international organizations in other countries allowing them to interact directly with experts, practitioners, and diplomats.

The Regional Academy was established in January 2012 in Vienna, Austria, in close collaboration with the Academic Council on the United Nations System (ACUNS), the United Nations Information Service (UNIS) Vienna, the Comprehensive Test-Ban Treaty Organization (CTBTO), the Czech United Nations Association, as well as different partner universities, such as the University of Economics in Prague (CZ) and the University of Szeged (HU). Other partners include, among others, The Hague Institute for Global Justice, University of Vienna, Diplomatic Academy Vienna, Central European University Budapest, Webster University Vienna, and Comenius University Bratislava.

Since its creation, RAUN has trained over 200 young scholars who have continued their endeavors in academia, government institutions, the UN system and other international organizations. The Academy was endorsed by the United Nations Secretariat through the Former UN Deputy Secretary-General, Jan Eliasson, and the United Nations Information Service (UNIS Vienna) as well as by the Hague Institute for Global Justice and by the Diplomatic Academy of Vienna.

Workshop Sessions

The nine-month long program consists of three workshop session, which are held in different cities in the partner countries. Each session lasts three days and includes several lectures and workshops, which are linked to the RAUN theme of the particular year. The lectures and workshops are given by experts and practitioners in the respective field. Apart from course-work, the sessions also include teamwork, networking and social activities that foster group dynamic, personal development and intercultural learning and understanding. The final session of the program takes place at the Vienna International Center, where the RAUN participants present the outcomes of their research projects.

RAUN 2019 – 2020 Sessions:

Bratislava/Vienna: 8-10 May 2019

Budapest: 4-6 September 2019

Vienna: 15-17 January 2020 (tbc)

NOTE: For successful completion of the Academy participants are strictly required to participate in all three sessions and to fully contribute to the final research outcome

Research Projects

Alongside the three sessions, participants work on research projects in small teams with a maximum of 4 members in close collaboration with partnering UN Organizations and their sub-units. The research topics are defined by the Organizations and are based on their current interests and activities they perform as part of their mandate. The research topics are linked to the yearly theme of the Academy, which addresses an issue of global relevance. This year, students will work on topics related to the theme: “Environmental and Socioeconomic Sustainability: How to Create Lasting Impacts”. Each topic is supervised by one or two UN staff members who guide and support the student group in their research activities.

Before the start of the Academy, participants receive an overview of the available research topics and the partnering UN Agencies. They are invited to an online survey, in which they can indicate their interests in the different topics and provide some further background information about their work and academic experiences. Based on this information, we assign the participants a topic and team, who they will be working with in the following months. As part of the first RAUN session, which will take place in Bratislava and Vienna, they will have a chance to meet with their team and their UN mentor(s), who will supervise their research project.

As part of the Academy, participants write a group research paper of 20 pages which will be published on the RAUN homepage and other platforms. The paper must follow RAUN guidelines, which are provided to the participants in the first session. Participants present the outcomes of their research to the representatives of their partnering UN Organizations and others during the final session of RAUN at the Vienna International Center.
